Character can be judged by a student's demeanor and motivation during school. Overall, the type of character the NAHS is looking for is a person who is truly enthusiastic and passionate about the arts and puts effort into other disciplines as well.

Service can be defined as duties or work done for another. A student who shows serviceability is one who readily helps others and is a great attribute to the classroom setting.

Commitment can be defined as how dedicated the student is. How well does the student follow through on assignments, projects, and extra activities? Are they self-motivated to complete all tasks?

Please rate the student's character and service by circling the number. If necessary explain your rating.
